Food & Farm Scorecard 2019

California Food & Farming Network (CFFN)

The California Food & Farming Network (CFFN) connects organizations across the state to advance equitable food and farming policy. The more than sixty organizations within CFFN are collectively dedicated to advancing state policies that are rooted in communities, promote fairness and racial equity, secure financial prosperity and advance environmental sustainability.

The following CFFN members have endorsed this scorecard:

CFFN's Racial Equity Statement

The California Food & Farming Network acknowledges that our food and farming system is built and maintained on a foundation of oppression and systemic racism toward Indigenous peoples, people of color, and immigrants. We also acknowledge that race intersects with other marginalized identities, such as gender, sexual orientation, immigration status, physical ability, class, and age, with a greater impact on those that hold more than one of these identities. A food and farming system that is not just, equitable, and inclusive is not sustainable, and in order to create the food and farming system that the world needs, it is imperative that we dismantle oppression and work towards racial equity.

Racial equity is the fair treatment of people of all races. We will achieve racial equity in the food and farming system when race no longer determines one's access to dignity and good food, land, jobs, housing, and health; when race no longer determines who is impacted by climate change or environmental hazards; when every person, regardless of race, has what they need to thrive. Racial equity is not simply the absence of discrimination. It requires more than equal distribution of resources to everyone despite their existing needs or assets. It is a process by which we establish and maintain deliberate systems and supports to achieve and sustain racial equity through proactive and preventative measures. It requires that we prioritize the allocation of resources, decision making and power to those who have been most impacted by the injustice of our current food and farming system.

Public policy has played a central role in institutionalizing racism. As a statewide network that works for policy change, CFFN believes that advancing policies that center racial equity and are rooted in frontline communities is an important strategy for transforming systems and creating lasting change. As a network whose current membership makeup is majority white-led organizations, we understand that we must change our internal processes to better reflect this commitment and hold ourselves accountable to these values; that this work must be ongoing; and that changing the makeup of our network, staff, and the communities and organizations that we partner with and are accountable to is part of this work. This statement and our actions will continue to change in tandem with our understanding and capacities.

Note: CFFN's commitment to racial equity is an ongoing process of learning, action and accountability and this equity statement is a living document.

Analysis 2019

In 2019 we saw policies put forward to improve access to healthy food, expand and bolster school meals, curb consumption of sugar sweetened beverages, and support ecological and just agriculture.

This year food and farming saw some important achievements: the withdrawal of the brain-damaging pesticide chlorpyrifos, the passage and funding of the Safe and Affordable Drinking Water Fund to clean up drinking water for over a million Californians, and almost double the funding for farmers to sink carbon into the ground through the Healthy Soils Program.

And yet, only 5 of our 22 prioritized bills were considered wins this year—the lowest outcome in seven years of tracking. There were five attempts to curb consumption of health-harming sugar sweetened beverages that stalled in the legislature. Three bills pursued improvements to K-12 school meal programs with no results in 2019; and the Governor vetoed guaranteed access to meals for preschool children. Legislation was put forward to help small farmers and farmers of color better access land and revitalize one of the state's farmer technical assistance programs, but neither bill moved out of its first house.

New programs and funding streams to support agriculture's role in reducing greenhouse gases that cause climate change were put on hold this year.

Despite California's low ranking nationally in SNAP (Cal-Fresh) enrollment across the state, the legislature couldn't pass a bill to improve access, especially for seniors, nor pass an act to plan for a hunger-free California.

Fortunately, the state committed to developing ideas to better link food and healthcare benefits programs. Additionally, more agricultural products can now be donated to food banks with a tax credit, and farmworkers are required to have access to personal protective equipment while they work during wildfire events.

With a Democratic supermajority, a budget in surplus, and a new administration, we had high hopes for this year. Next year, we know we can do better. The social problems of our time cannot be combated without addressing food and farming issues. The negative impacts of climate change are exponentially increasing, public health disparities widening, and the crisis of poverty deepening. All of these issues have solutions within food and farming policy. It's time for the state to step up in support of an equitable, thriving food and farming system. With 11 of our bills seemingly alive in the 2-year cycle and a movement committed to innovation and healing, we are looking to 2020 with resolve.

Ten Guiding Principles

CFFN promotes policies that:

1. Ensure access to nutritious, culturally appropriate food as a basic human right.

2. Reduce health and income disparities and the concentration of resources, while upholding the dignity, security, and self-determination of all the communities it serves with equity-enhancing policies and practices.

3. Make the healthiest choice the easiest choice with policies and practices that promote health and result in food environments that provide access to an abundance of affordable, fresh food choices, incentives to consume healthy, humane, local and California-grown foods.

4. Protect and restores our environment and vital natural resources, such as air, water, soil, biodiversity, climate, and wildlife and eliminates waste wherever possible.

5. Support a vibrant and diverse food and agriculture economy comprised of businesses of multiple scales that sell to local, regional, state, national and international markets, while creating strong linkages and benefits for our local and regional economies.

6. Recognize that a fair food system requires functional immigration and labor policies that uphold the dignity, safety, and quality of life for all who work to feed us.

7. Recognize the vital role of education in preparing our youth to become the next generation of informed eaters, producers, and food chain workers.

8. Value our farmland and fisheries and the hard work and commitment of our farmers, fisherfolk, and ranchers.

9. Operate within a global food system that generates economic, political, and market realities that impact the choices of California producers, food businesses, policy-makers and consumers.

10. Require that all food system stakeholders are engaged in the political process and are in dialogue with each other at the local, regional, state and national level through meaningful and effective collaboration.

These guiding principles were adopted from the California Food Policy Council

Budget Priorities

There were some highs and lows for food and farming funding in 2019. Six out of 14 requests were funded, and only one request received full funding. Just over 220 million dollars were invested in equitable food and farming priorities this year, out of approximately $470 million requested—a 26% investment decrease from last year.

Four items are worth celebrating this year: 1) funding for the Safe and Affordable Drinking Water Fund after a decade of advocacy, 2) almost double the funding for the Healthy Soils Program compared to past years, 3) $5.7 million in new funding for an alternatives to chlorpyrifos project housed in the state's Department of Food and Agriculture and Department of Pesticide Regulation and 4) full funding for Food Bank Capacity Grants to support physical infrastructure enhancements.

CFFN Priority Bill/Budget Item	$ Amount Requested	$ Amount Received
AB 409 (Limón) One-time funding for adaptation tools for farmers	$2,000,000	Not Funded
AB 479 (Nazarian) Prop 98 funding for DOE to provide additional reimbursement to schools offering additional plant based or nondairy milk options	$4,700,000	Not Funded

Ecological Agriculture and Food Production

In 2019, we continued to see legislation importantly focused on agriculture and its role in combating climate change, and a long-sought-after ban on a brain-harming agricultural pesticide to better protect the health of our farmworkers, rural communities, and the environment.

Wins

SB 458 (Durazo) Protect Children from Brain-Damaging Chlorpyrifos Act of 2019

This bill would have banned the use of chlorpyrifos, a brain-damaging pesticide used on agricultural crops. The bill was held in Senate Appropriations Committee, but the Department of Pesticide Regulation has reached an agreement with the registrants (manufacturers of chlorpyrifos products) to end sales and use of all chlorpyrifos products in California after December 31, 2020.

Held in Senate Appropriation Committee, but achieved via DPR agreement with registrants.

In 2-year process

AJR 7 (T. Gloria) Green New Deal

This resolution urges Congress to pursue policies under the Green New Deal that provide benefits to frontline communities, and recognize the value of investing in local food systems and regenerative agricultural practices to address our climate crisis and social injustices.

Held in Senate Rules Committee

SB 45 (Allen) Wildfire Prevention, Safe Drinking Water, Drought Preparation, and Flood Protection Bond Act of 2020

This bill would authorize monies in general obligation bonds to finance resource projects to increase climate resilience, including agricultural practices that promote healthy soils, conserve water, protect farmland, and more. The bond would go to the state ballot for the people's vote.

Held in Senate Appropriations Committee

Losses

AB 409 (Limón) Agricultural Climate Adaptation Tools

This bill would have established a competitive grant program at the California Department of Food and Agriculture to develop climate adaptation planning tools for farmers and ranchers.

Died in Senate Appropriations Committee

Economic Viability of Local Food & Small Scale Agriculture

Two bills showcased the need for the state to support farming programs focused on racial equity and economic prosperity for growing populations of farmers of color and small- and mid-scale farms and ranches.

In 2-year process

AB 838 (Eggman) Farmer Equity and Innovation Center

This bill would create the Farmer Equity and Innovation Center within the University of California's Small Farm Program to provide additional support, research opportunities and training for historically underserved farmers on small- and moderate-scale farms and ranches in California.

Held in Assembly Appropriations Committee

Losses

AB 986 (R. Rivas) Regional Economies + Equity in Agricultural Land (REEAL) Act of 2019

This bill would have established the Regional Economies and Equity in Agricultural Lands (REEAL) Program at the Department of Conservation to increase access to farmland and capital for socially disadvantaged farmers and ranchers, while preserving agricultural lands.

Died in Assembly Appropriations Committee

Food Chain Worker Advancement

A just agricultural system must include protections for farmworkers, as we saw in one of this year's few successes.

Wins

AB 1124 (Maienschein) Wildfire Protection

This bill requires the Occupational Safety and Health Standards Board to adopt emergency regulations to provide protections, in the form of respirators, from the pollutants of wildfire smoke for outdoor workers, including farmworkers, during harmful levels of wildfire smoke.

Inactive on Senate Floor, but was achieved via CalOSHA regulations

Improved Access to Healthy Food & Beverages

Healthy food and beverage access saw themes around school meals and sugary beverages this year, as well as an annual focus on improving access to CalFresh and a multi-year fight for clean and affordable drinking water.

Wins

AB 614 (Eggman) Food Donation Tax Credit Expansion

This bill expands the Farm to Food Bank Tax Credit beyond fresh produce, to make eligible other healthy California foods such as milk, meat, eggs, nuts and other staples.

Passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor

AB 1377 (Wicks) CalFresh

This bill directs state agencies and stakeholders to develop a statewide process that will examine data across the free/reduced price meals program, Medi-Cal, Electronic Benefit Transfer, and CalFresh in order to accelerate enrollment of children and families on school meals into the CalFresh program.

Passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor

SB 200 (Monning) Safe and Affordable Drinking Water Fund

This bill establishes the Safe and Affordable Drinking Water Fund to ensure all Californians have access to potable water.

Passed by the Legislature and signed by the Governor

In 2-year process

AB 1022 (Wicks) California Anti-Hunger Response and Employment Training Act of 2019

This bill would establish the California Anti-Hunger Response and Employment Training (CARET) program to fight hunger and support work among individuals who have been determined ineligible for SNAP (CalFresh).

Held in Senate Appropriations Committee

Losses

AB 534 (Mayes) Envision a Hunger-Free California Act of 2019

This bill would have required a multiagency plan to end hunger in California, including identification of barriers to food access.

Died in Assembly Appropriations Committee

SB 285 (Wiener) CalFresh Connect

This bill would have improved access to CalFresh by establishing appropriate enrollment methods by phone, online, and in person, with special attention for the needs of seniors.

Died in Assembly Appropriations Committee

School Meals

In 2-year process

AB 479 (Nazarian) California School Plant-Based Food & Beverage Program

This bill would provide a new reimbursement to schools for offering additional plant-based or nondairy milk options and for professional development and training around plant-based meals.

Held in Senate Appropriations Committee

SB 499 (McGuire) California-Grown for Healthy Kids

This bill would have provided an extra 10 cents per meal for the purchase of CA-grown fresh fruits and vegetables by school districts or charters that provide a daily universally free breakfast and lunch in high-poverty schools.

Held in Assembly Education Committee

Losses

AB 842 (Limón) Hunger-Free Preschool

This bill would have required each state preschool program to provide a nutritious, free or low-cost meal each day for preschool students.

Passed by the Legislature and vetoed by the Governor

AB 958 (Aguiar-Curry) The California Organic-to-School Pilot Program

This bill would have created a pilot competitive grant program for public school districts to receive up to 15 cents extra per meal to purchase California-produced organic food.

Died in Assembly Appropriations Committee

Sugar Sweetened Beverages Bills

In 2-year process

AB 138 (Bloom) California Community Health Fund

This bill would tax sugary beverage distributors to create a California Community Health Fund to support prevention and treatment of disease.

Held in Assembly Revenue & Taxation Committee

AB 764 (Bonta) Sugar-Sweetened Beverages—Nonsale Distribution Incentives

Held on Assembly Floor

AB 765 (Wicks) Health Checkout Aisles for Healthy Families Act

Held in Assembly Health Committee

AB 766 (Chiu) Unsealed Beverage Container Portion Cap

Held in Assembly Health Committee

SB 347 (Monning) Sugar-Sweetened Beverages: Safety Warnings

Held in Assembly Health Committee

This package of bills would protect the health of Californians and curb overconsumption of unhealthy sugar-sweetened beverages by providing consumers with healthy beverage options, eliminating predatory promotional marketing schemes, reducing consumption of unhealthy beverages, and placing health-warning labels on sugary beverages.

The California Food and Farm Policy Champions

In a Legislature with 120 elected officials, many champions for change to California's agriculture and food system are needed. This year we recognize Assemblymembers Cecilia Aguiar-Curry and Monique Limón, joining our growing list of honored legislatures—2016: Assemblymember Eggman, Assemblymember Ting, Senator Leno, Senator Wolk; 2017: Assemblymember Chiu, Senator McGuire; 2018: Senator Lara, Senator Monning.

Assemblymember Cecilia Aguiar-Curry

Cecilia Aguiar-Curry came to the Assembly in 2017 representing communities in Northern California from Lake County to Yolo County. As a youth, she cut apricots in packing sheds and helped her father in the walnut orchards near Winters. Today, she and her brothers own an 80-acre walnut orchard. These agricultural roots have influenced her support of local food and agricultural systems dating back to her time as the Mayor of Winters and continued into her tenure as a state Assemblymember. In her first year, Aguiar-Curry successfully authored the Farmer Equity Act, enabling the California Department of Food and Agriculture (CDFA) to better support the state's farmers of color, leading to the hiring of the first Farm Equity Advisor at CDFA, an assessment of the make-up of CDFA's governing bodies, and the prioritization of farmers of color in state programs and communications. She added the Secretary of CDFA to the state's Broadband Council to better represent rural agriculture needs, and she carried the state's first organic school food procurement policy. Assemblymember Aguiar-Curry has voted in alignment with the food movement's priorities on all but two bills since 2017.

Assemblymember Monique Limón

Monique Limón came to the Assembly in 2017 representing parts of Ventura and Santa Barbara Counties. Limón has supported a variety of causes across the food and farming system, from food access, climate resilient agriculture and organic waste recycling. With education as a priority, this year she authored AB 842, which would have required state preschool programs to provide a healthy free or low-cost meal to all public school preschool students. She also carried AB 409 to provide tools for farmers to plan for climate change. In 2018, she authored and passed a bill, AB 1981, to help the state meet its organic waste recycling goals by requiring consultation between CalEPA and CalFire and encouraging the use of compost in projects that reduce fire risk. Assemblymember Limón has voted in alignment with the food movement's priorities on all but one bill since 2017.

*Senator Dahle's score represents both Assembly and Senate votes

We scored 9 bills in the Assembly and 7 bills in the Senate. When a bill returned to its house of origin for a concurrence vote, we used that vote. A NVR counts as -1 for a bill CFFN supported. EA are not included in scores.
